

Richmond Dispatch

TUESDAY.....APRIL 19, 1881.

WYLIE'S MILL, S. C., April 15, 1881.
Editors Dispatch, Richmond, Va.:

I feel kindly towards Virginia and her people from the association I had with Virginia soldiers during the late war. It was the influence of this feeling that prompted me to take your paper. While I am a Son of the South, I served the last three years of the war in a Virginia regiment. I formed during those three years an attachment with many brave and noble men. I have lost sight of all these men, and I have a strong desire to hear from them and to know where they are and how they are getting along. Living in a different State, I have no means of ascertaining their address. There are several other men in my neighborhood who served in the same regiment (Pate's Battalion), who are also anxious to open correspondence with some of their old comrades. Will you please publish, under the head of "Information Wanted," the following notice: W. A. NUNNEY, C. E. NUNNEY, and C. L. Cherry, of Wylie's Mill, S. C., want to know the post-office address of Captain McElroy and Company G, Fifth Virginia Cavalry; Leonidas Chisolm, of Company G, Fifth Virginia Cavalry; Sergeant George Montealte of Company H, Fifth Virginia Cavalry; Robert Rose, of Company G, Fifth Virginia Cavalry; Adjutant Pete, Fifth Virginia Cavalry.

Respectfully, W. A. NUNNEY.

More Pay Demanded.

MEETING OF THE NEW YORK TAILORS—ORGANIZATION OF BLACKSMITHS AND WHEEL-WRIGHTS—THE BAKERS; ATTEMPT TO BOYCOTT A BOSS—CARPENTERS TO STRIKE.

NEW YORK, April 17.—The tailors of this city held a mass-meeting to-day at the German Assembly rooms. Frederick Jansen presided. Robert Blisett addressed the meeting upon the condition of the trade, and more particularly of the locked-out workmen of John Patten's shop. The lock-out, he said, continued with but little change in the attitude of either the firm or the men; the disreputable way in which the employer was having his work made up was a disgrace.

Men were present from the trades.

Men were present from the trades.